

BURGLAR SHOT DEAD

As He Was Working on Safe in Sheldon Store.

BY THE STORE CLERK

Same Store Broken Into on Two Previous Occasions—Last Time Before
This Burglar Held Up by Clerk and Sent to Windsor.

Sheldon, Oct. 13.—An unknown man was shot and instantly killed here at about one o'clock this morning, while trying to burglarize the store of Jennison & Gillet company.

He effected an entrance by prying open a side window, the sash of which was fastened down by a cleat, the snapping of this cleat as it was broken arousing Eugene Trudeau, a clerk who sleeps over the store. In Mr. Trudeau's room there is a register which looks down directly in front of the safe, and the clerk watched a moment through this and saw a man tampering with the lock. Trudeau leveled his revolver, but the man stepped out of range for a moment. As quick as he came in sight again Trudeau fired, the bullet entering his head just behind the right ear, killing him instantly. Mr. Trudeau then aroused the community by firing out of the window.

The burglar was not identified, but photographs were taken of him and have been sent to different cities. He is six feet tall, weighs 180 pounds and was between 30 and 36 years of age. It is thought that he was one of the men connected with the East Deerfield post office robbery a short time ago.

This store has been entered three times and the burglars have never succeeded in getting any booty, and have twice been caught. The first time was eight years ago, and a clerk scared them away. Four years ago a clerk named Royce surprised and made the burglar a prisoner, and he is now serving a sentence at Windsor.

TWO ARRESTS MADE.

Authorities Think They Are Clearing Up
Middletown, N. Y. Murder.

Middletown, N. Y., Oct. 13.—The mystery which has surrounded the identity of the two men seen in a lumber box wagon at the Olney house on Friday last, the day of the murder of the Olney brothers and the Ingelrick child was explained yesterday when William Conkling and his son, John, were brought here from Brownville, Sullivan county, by chief of police, Brinkerhoff.

Brinkerhoff was advised of the identity of the men by anonymous letters from Otisville.

Conkling and his son admit stopping at the Olney farm about noon last Friday but claim they saw no one there. They say they were desirous of purchasing onions and procured some at a neighbor's house. Afterward they say, they drove home. There are some discrepancies in the stories told by father and son, which will be investigated.

Martin Sigler, a farmer residing near here, was held last night as a witness in connection with the case. Sigler was subjected to a most rigid examination, which did not end until midnight. Developments of the past few hours indicate that the mystery may be solved soon. William Conkling and his son, John, of Brownville also have been held as witnesses.

ARSENIC FOR BAKING POWDER.

Two Already Dead as Result of a Terrible Mistake.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Oct. 13.—John Holliday and his wife died and their grandson, Harry Holliday, is expected to die from arsenic poisoning. Mrs. Holliday used arsenic in making biscuits, mistaking it for baking powder.

The grandson has used the arsenic to kill cats and had told his grandmother to be careful of the can, which was on a shelf in the pantry. In the dark yesterday morning she mistook it for baking powder. She used enough of the stuff in the biscuits to kill 200 people. During the meal she noticed a peculiar taste in the biscuits, and went to look at the can in the pantry, but it seemed to be the baking powder can and she suspected nothing until she was taken violently ill shortly after the meal. She died about noon and her husband died a few hours later. There is no hope for the grandson. Other members of the family who were late in arising escaped the poisoned biscuits.

FRANCE GETTING IMPATIENT.

Because of President Castro's Persistent Refusal.

Paris, Oct. 13.—For the first time since the trouble with Venezuela arose, the situation is regarded as growing acute. President Castro's persistence in refusing to recognize the French representative at Caracas has exhausted the patience of the French government, which still insists that apologies shall be offered to M. Taigny. While the French cable company refuses to deal directly with Castro, the feeling is predominant in official circles that the moment has come for action against Venezuela with or without the co-operation of the United States.

Will Ratify Tomorrow.

Washington, Oct. 13.—The ratification of the peace treaty between Russia and Japan will take place tomorrow.

STATE HEALTH IS GOOD.

Board Reports That There Are No Epidemics.

Burlington, Oct. 13.—Dr. C. S. Caverly of Rutland, Dr. H. D. Holton of Brattleboro and Dr. T. R. Stiles of St. Johnsbury, members of the state board of health, met at the state laboratory of hygiene yesterday and considered various matters pertaining to the work of the board.

The report of W. H. Hazen of New York with reference to the proposed filtration plant for Vergennes was read and discussed, but it did not require any action on the part of the board. The other cities and towns in which the water systems have been condemned are all considering a remedy, and the board does not need to take further action. The towns affected are Burlington, St. Johnsbury, Enosburg Falls and Swanton.

It was stated that there was no epidemic in the state, and that conditions in that particular were much better than common.

NO SITE SELECTED.

Representative Is Being Sent Out by Commission.

Burlington, Oct. 13.—The members of the state tuberculosis commission met at the Van Ness House last night and considered plans for the coming year. The question of the new tuberculosis sanitarium which Senator Redfield Proctor is to build and give to the state was discussed, but no action relative has been sent by Senator Proctor to visit the sites suggested but no decision has yet been reached.

The commission will hold meetings in the various counties during the coming year, as they have in the past and will continue their campaign of education. It is probable that a few more meetings will be held this year, probably in Caledonia and Chittenden counties. Dr. H. D. Holton, the newly-elected chairman, who succeeds Dr. A. D. Groat of Waterbury, recently resigned, met with the board for the second time last night.

UNDERWEAR SAVES LIFE.

But Essex Junction Child Was Badly Burned.

Essex Junction, Oct. 13.—Charles, the one-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Mudgett, was quite badly burned on an arm yesterday. Mrs. Mudgett had left the room for a short time, and he and his little sister, Margaret, were alone. The little girl started to put some paper into the stove, but it lighted quickly and the baby, and Mrs. Mudgett, returning just then, found the sleeve of his dress alight. The heavy woolen underwear the child wore probably saved him from being severely burned.

CONVENTION ADJOURNED

State Club Women Ended Sessions Last Night.

ADDRESS ON FORESTRY

Miss Susan Clark of Brattleboro Was Re-elected President — The Constitution Was Somewhat Modified.

The final session of the Vermont Federation of Women's Clubs was held in the Methodist church at 7:15 last evening, when Mrs. Walter Stokes Irons addressed a public meeting on "Women of Colonial Days." Mrs. Irons' address was a most interesting one. She told of the work and recreation of the women who were the wives and daughters of pioneer settlers. She told of the work of Anne Story in aiding the "Green Mountain Boys" during the war with England, of Mrs. Brette, who was really the first agitator for women's suffrage, of famous women of Massachusetts who formed a sort of club before the Revolution, but which was so frowned upon by the men that it was dropped. But a club was started about the time of the "Boston tea party" which was known as the "Daughters of Liberty." This was really the first woman's club in America.

Mrs. Irons told of the first women writers, how their work was looked down on by the men and the little sympathy which the writers received. She also told of the pastimes of the women and children, both North and South, saying that the children of New York and the colonies south from that, had much more liberty than had they in Massachusetts. The purpose of Mrs. Irons talk was to show that the agitation of women's suffrage and women's clubs is no new idea.

The tenth annual meeting of the Vermont State Federation of Women's Clubs was adjourned at 8:30 to allow the ladies to attend the lecture by Jacob Riis. The delegates returned to their homes today.

Destruction of Forests.

Yesterday afternoon's session of the meeting was called to order at 2:30, and the opening number was a paper by Miss Helen Williston Smith, chairman of the committee on forestry. This was followed by an address by Ernest Hitchcock, secretary of the Forestry Association of Vermont.

Mr. Hitchcock stated that a universal interest has been aroused throughout the United States by the portending danger of a timber famine. In speaking of this danger Mr. Hitchcock said that in 1900 thirty-five billion board feet of lumber were used in these United States, that the estimated supply of timber is 1,240 billion board feet.

Thus in 35 years, under the present methods of lumbering, we shall have no forests in our country. If we were to strip 100 to 200 years to cover the stripped timber land with another growth of valuable timber. The railroads of the United States use annually 120,000,000 railroad ties, or about 4 billion feet; they use for other purposes an equal amount, making a total of eight billion feet used annually by the railroads.

Certain kinds of timber are nearly extinct in the United States. Pines, for instance, for which Maine was once famous, are a very scarce specimen at present in that state. Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota will be stripped of pine timber in a very few years.

Mr. Hitchcock said that as we lessen our timber land we are lessening our supply of underground water currents, for it is chiefly in the timber lands that these have their sources, as the open lands are beaten down to such an extent that most of the water runs off as surface water. As the forests grow less the floods in the spring caused by the rapidly melting snows become worse. In the forests the snow does not melt so rapidly and so sinks into the ground. Our forests act like large bodies of water in equalizing the temperature. Mr. Hitchcock thought the best way for Vermonters to stop the destruction of our forests was for the legislature to make a law regulating the taxation of timber lands so that the owners could afford to let the timber stand instead of stripping it off as quickly as possible.

On the matter of forest fires, Mr. Hitchcock said that it seemed to him as if insurance companies ought to insure a man's timber as readily as a city block. Vermont, small as it is comparatively, lost $250,000 by forest fires last year, while Washington lost $12,000,000 from forest fires. This sum does not show all the loss, but only that of timber. The sections burned over lose much more, however, because the young saplings, seeds, and vegetation of all kinds is also killed, and if the forest happens to be on a hill or mountain slope, as is usually the case in Vermont, the next rain after a fire is likely to carry the whole upper surface of the soil down into the valleys, filling up rivers and lakes.

There is a social problem also connected with the wholesale stripping of our hills, for by the buying up and cutting over by the great syndicates of vast districts, the people of those districts are deprived of their vocation, that of lumbering on a small scale, so our small villages are being slowly depopulated. In Vermont we have between 2,500,000 and 3,500,000 acres of forest and waste land, but the waste land is getting rapidly larger. Vermont realizes annually $6,000,000 from timber and about $4,000,000 from fire wood, bark, etc., thus making a total of $10,000,000. But each year it takes that much worth from our hills, which is not being put back in any way, so that at the present rate of cutting down forest land it will be only a few years before this industry will be at an end. Mr. Hitchcock thought that the state ought to buy up the waste lands and let them have a chance to become reforested.

The audience was then treated to a vocal solo by Mrs. W. Frank Harris, accompanied by Mrs. Davis.

The report of the credential committee was then heard, which showed that out of the 28 federated clubs 21 were represented.

The Election of Officers.

The president then asked if there were any amendments to be made to the bylaws, and it was voted to amend the constitution in such a way as to set aside the bylaw, for one meeting only, which states that the officers of the federation shall hold office for only two years. Since the election of the federation officers comes on the same year as the biennial meeting of the general federation, the newly elected president who is the chairman of the Vermont delegation to the national meeting, is barely elected before she is obliged to go to the convention. It was thought best to amend the present constitution so that either a set of officers be elected for only one year or the present officers be kept in office for one more year, thus accomplishing the desired end of having the president in office one year before going to the national convention.

The latter course was decided upon, and Miss Susan E. Clark of Brattleboro was elected president; Mrs. Rebecca Fairbanks of St. Johnsbury, vice president; Mrs. Josephine H. Arms of Bellows Falls, treasurer, and since Mrs. Hazen of St. Johnsbury did not wish to serve as recording secretary, Mrs. O. D. Mathewson of the city was elected to fill her place. Mrs. Mary C. Kirkland of Bellows Falls was elected auditor, Mrs. Susan E. Balch of St. Johnsbury was elected state secretary to the General Federation.

Miss Susan E. Clark was elected chairman of the board of delegates to the General Federation. The other delegates were: Mrs. Rebecca Fairbanks of St. Johnsbury, Mrs. H. S. Welling of Bennington, Mrs. C. C. Warren of Waterbury, Mrs. Josephine H. Arms of Bellows Falls, and Mrs. N. D. Phelps of Barre.

The session closed with the report of the state editor.

"TONY'S STRUGGLE"

Subject of Interesting Address by Jacob Riis Last Evening.

Barre people in goodly numbers, a considerable delegation from Montpelier and the club women who have been attending the State Federation convention in this city were enabled to listen to Jacob Riis, reporter, lecturer and slum reformer, at the Barre opera house last evening. Mr. Riis came to fill a last season's engagement with the lecture course association, having been prevented previously by the illness of Mrs. Riis, who has since died. Supt. Mathewson introduced the speaker who chose "Tony's Struggle" for his subject.

As Mr. Riis speaks with a peculiar accent the audience spent several minutes trying to get acquainted, but when they did accustom themselves to the speaker's voice and mannerisms they were well pleased with the presentation of the struggles of the slum boy of New York as told by one of the prominent workers among them. Twenty-five years as a police reporter followed by active work in uplifting the young men, gives Mr. Riis a personal experience. This experience he told in his graphic style, keeping the audience interested for nearly two hours.

The speaker maintained that there are three things which shape the boy, (1) the home, (2) the public school, and (3) the chance for play, the safety valve, as Mr. Riis called it, of the boy's pent-up enthusiasm. Yet New York is a slum city; three-fourths of the four millions live in tenements, and tenement life makes for unrighteousness and corruption of the young. Then the speaker told how this comes about in New York. The public schools of New York are largely "sausage machines," he declared, where the children are cramed full of mere facts, much as the sausage skins are cramed full of filling in the markets. The public schools are more or less of a political play ball. And finally the boy's chance for play is curtailed by the sign "Keep Off the Grass," which adorns every ten foot plot of land in the tenement region. No wonder, Mr. Riis asserted, that the boy's bent is toward criminality. The tendency is in New York to teach a boy disrespect for law. He could figure to show that 75 per cent of the boys in the Elmira, N. Y., reformatory are absolutely devoid, or almost devoid, of moral sense.

PLAN FOR BOWLING SEASON.

Inter-city League Will Begin Season's Games Very Soon.

A meeting of the Inter-city Bowling Association was held at Bailey's alleys in Montpelier last evening, and it was decided to arrange and play out a schedule and the drawing up of a list of games was left to A. W. Bailey of Montpelier and Henry Alexander of Barre. There will be three teams from each city the same as last year, and several special rules were adopted by the meeting, viz., any man playing the opening game with any team is a member of that team and cannot play on any other; if he does the game does not count in the standing of the team with which he played unlawfully. Sixteen pound balls, 27 inches in circumference, shall be used in all matches. The general rules as drawn up by the American Bowling Congress, will govern the matches. No player may hold more than one prize, and a player must participate in at least two-thirds of the games scheduled for his team before he may try for a prize.

Among those from Barre present at the meeting were Henry Alexander, Ed. Charbonneau, Donald Smith and others. There will be a meeting next Thursday evening at Bailey's alleys, at which time the schedule will be read.

SILVER STREET HOPEFUL.

Because Street Roller Is Compelled to Pass Once in Five or Six Years.

Editor Times: The people of Silver street feel highly delighted at the manner repairs are being looked after on that street this fall. The road roller, to avoid going over the Brook street bridge, passed down North Main and up Silver to get to Latrel street on the morning of the 12th, in about six inches of mud and water. They feel if this is repeated once in five or six years the inhabitants of the street will have no cause for complaint but what the street and walk is in good repair.
